MEMORANDUM

R.C. 6101.33 provides that a property owner or public corporation has thirty days from the date of publication of the legal notice under R.C. 6101.32 within which to file an exception to the Conservancy Appraisal Record. Unless an exception is filed, the landowner "shall be construed" to have accepted the appraisal of benefits to its property. See R.C. 6101.33.

Additionally, any property owner may, at any time, pursue administrative remedies, totally separate from the statutory exception process. This is discussed more fully, below.

The Board of Appraisers filed the Conservancy Appraisal Record with the Court on March 9, 2006. On March 10, 2006 (and two subsequent dates), legal notices were published in newspapers of general circulation throughout the Conservancy District, pursuant to R.C. 6101.32. The notices advised landowners of their right to file exceptions to the Conservancy Appraisal Record and the corresponding time limitation.

Pursuant to R.C. 6101.33 and the corresponding date of publication, property owners within fourteen of the counties the District had until April 10, 2006, to file their exceptions with the clerk. Property owners in Coshocton, Licking and Muskingum counties had until April 24, 2006 to file, and property owners in Knox County had until May 1, 2006, to file their exceptions. These deadlines have now expired.

In Margaret Creek Conservancy District v. Albany Lions Club (1969), 19 Ohio App.2d 193, 250 N.E.2d 773, the Fourth District Court of Appeals held that a property owner that fails to file an exception "shall be construed to have accepted the appraisers' report as to benefits, damages and land taken, and not merely acquiescing in the report as to these items.” Id. at 199. Further, “[w]here one accepts the appraisal report ..., or is deemed to have accepted by law, the matter is at an end.” Id. at 200.

Revised Code § 6101.33 is clear that to be timely an exception must be “filed” with the Clerk within thirty days of the appropriate date of publication.

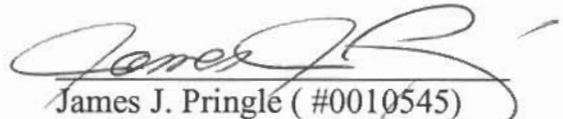

Consequently, the exceptions filed outside of the statutory framework should be dismissed, and the individuals filing late exceptions should be construed to have accepted the Conservancy Appraisal Record.

However, it is important to note that pursuant to Billing Policy 8 of the Reappraisal of Benefits Project, Billing Policy Manual, property owners are permitted to seek administrative corrections to their assessments without filing an exception with the Court. Thus, if a landowner discovers an error in their assessment, they can seek a correction with the MWCD, even though an exception was never filed or was untimely filed. The right to seek this administrative remedy (outside of the “court” process) will still be held by any exceptors whose objections are dismissed for not being filed timely.

Accordingly, the MWCD moves that the Court dismiss the exceptions filed after the deadline set forth in R.C. 6101.33. Specifically, MWCD requests that the following exceptions be dismissed: 1) exceptions filed after May 1, 2006, relating to property in Knox County; 2) exceptions filed after April 24, 2006, relating to property in Coshocton, Licking, and Muskingum Counties; and, 3) exceptions filed after April 10, 2006, relating to property in the remaining 14 counties in the Conservancy District.
