FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Leaders of Today Meet with Leaders of Tomorrow

During Monday's Commissioners Meeting on August 13th, the Commissioners met with Cindy Lattner and the Tuscarawas County Leaders of Tomorrow. Cindy Lattner said that the group, which was created last year, has the vision to inspire, challenge and empower youth to become leaders in their community, state, country, and world. Encouraging teenagers to be responsible for success in their lives, develop the communication skills in exchanging information and opinions in speaking and listening, learning about the community where he or she lives, and then developing the skills to be a leader in the community are the four major goals of the youth led group. Career and professional development skills such as resume building are also honed.

Chelsea Grove, Ciara Grove, McKalynne Helmke, Kennedy Allen, Adeline Kendle, Riley Randolph, and Cade Liggett, provided the board with an excellent and informative presentation on wide array of topics ranging from tourism, industry, education, small business, and his or her own dreams and goals in life. The youth have also written grants for work at the fairgrounds, are planning a mobile garden for this year's fair, and have met with numerous leaders throughout the county. Upcoming, Tuscarawas County Leaders of Tomorrow are planning to meet with Leadership Tuscarawas.

The Commissioners were very impressed with the excellent quality of the presentation and the skills the youth demonstrated. Commissioner Abbuhl congratulated the young people on a fantastic presentation, adding that they are already leaders among their peers and prime examples of young people in Tuscarawas County. Commissioner Metzger commended the youth on an excellent and informative presentation, noting that communication, which they are already honing their skills and succeeding in, is the foundation of leadership. Commissioner Sciarretti said to the young people that their presentation was phenomenal, adding that the program was fantastic and that their comprehensive presentation given to the Board was the best he has seen in his tenure as a Commissioner.
